➤ ABOUT ALLENS

Allens is a leading international law firm with offices throughout Australia and Asia. From playing a pioneering role in the development of legislation and regulatory frameworks, to acting on numerous 'firsts' across a range of industry and community issues, it is in our DNA to make a difference and help shape what our world looks like.

Allens has a long association with major Japanese companies with significant dealings in Australia and the Asia region. Over the past few decades, we have advised more than 500 Japanese clients. In addition, the firm represents many of the largest and best-known Australian corporations and multinationals dealing with Japanese counterparts.

Our specialist Japan Group provides clients with an excellent proficiency in the Japanese language but, even more importantly, in Japanese business practice, intuitively understanding the needs and business drivers of Japanese corporations and institutions.
